Sir / Madam,

As I have mentioned in my trail mail, I can share complete details of that company if I gets assurance from you about keep my name strictly confidential and you shall take the strong actions against that company. As per BIS rules, selling the products without CRS / BIS / BEE is a crime, right?

Regards,

Hardik Pandya

Dear Sir / Madam,

Myself Hardik Pandya, residing at Ahmedabad and since 40 years I am in Service Industry for Consumer Durables. I had also sincerely followed the rules and obtained CRS / BIS / BEE in my past companies.

Since many years, manufacturers / companies are fear free selling LED Televisions (32" to 85") without any CRS or BIS or BEE certifications in India. Those companies Directors have not any kind of seriousness about getting their products certified from concern labs / department and than sell the safe products to the customers, by breaching of Law they are saving some money and adding it into their profit, but they are selling such dangerous products to the innocent customers. I know one company, they have sold 1.5 lakh+ televisions since 2022 and still selling, that company is getting FG from Noida OEMs and selling into various states of India, particular that company MD is over confident and he thinks, he will pay the bribe to the BIS / BEE inspectors / officers, as an when they caught, this is their mindset and no fear of government laws.

If, I am not wrong, today, in India 50% brands (small brands or private lables) are selling TV / Home Theaters without BIS / BEE and melting money and another side Indian Government is losing their revenue.

Sir / Madam, I can share complete details of that company if I gets assurance from you about keep my name strictly confidential and you shall take the strong actions against that company. I hope together, we can save millions life by stopping such illegal selling products.

Regards,

Hardik Pandya
